

SENTENCE SERMONS IN PULPITS OF EL PASO

The blood of the civilized world is the purer for the word spoken by Christ to the woman who touched his garment.—Rev. J. M. Kendrick, at St. Clement's church.

Everything in life depends upon whether a man works for God or with God, that is, whether he lets God work through him.—Dr. H. O. Breeden, at First Christian church.

It is a significant fact that Jesus himself never gave the least intimation at the Bible was other than absolutely trustworthy.—Rev. Chas. L. Overstreet, at First Presbyterian church.

When Christ commands us to seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness the command is intended for Christians and he means for us to have the interest of the kingdom first in all our affairs.—Rev. R. T. Hanks, at Trinity Baptist church.

The love of God could never have been realized unless the Word had dwelt in a human life, with ear ears for little children; tears for brothers; tender pity for the lost; as only unto death for mankind.—Rev. C. S. Wright, at Trinity Methodist church.

Christ's church is a local body with Christ as its head, king, and only savior, to which body he has given the keys of the kingdom, which is His, the gospel, which is the power of God to salvation to every one that believeth.—Rev. L. R. Millican, at First Baptist church.

David was a great sinner, but a greater penitent, and from the throes of penitential grief his faith took hold of that within the veil, and so it was with him; though we may have fallen never so low in sin, by penitence faith we may be so changed that we will not only be a fit associate for, but for angels as well.—Rev. R. B. Evans, of Stamford, Texas, at Highland Park Methodist church.

He who sets his heart upon earthly and temporal things, such as fame, wealth and pleasure, shall finally be to sever separated from the objects of his desire, but he who sets his affection upon the unseen and eternal things, such as God, heaven and His holy word—shall abide with them forever. Hence, object of your love and affection decides your eternal destiny.—Rev. W. Otto, at First Methodist church.

FIRST CHRISTIAN REVIVAL STARTED

Dr. Breeden Begins Series of Meetings With Two Sermons Sunday.

The evangelistic service at the First Christian church, conducted by Dr. H. O. Breeden, evangelist, with professor W. J. Lint, leader of song, and Charles H. Travis, soloist, assisting Rev. F. J. Rice, had an auspicious beginning yesterday.

A large audience at the morning service listened to Dr. Breeden on the subject: "Workers Together With God." The sermon revealed a mingled richness of thought and information gathered from book and travel. Dr. Breeden is endowed with sufficient imagination and heart power to make his hearers see and feel the great truths he preaches.

Dr. Breeden emphasized the thought that Christians are not so much workers for God as they are workers with Him. He was unique in his method of scripture reading. He used no Bible and did not simply quote the long passages which was the morning lesson, but he told it as a familiar story of which he was not only acquainted with the details, but as one who had lived in the scenes of the historic incidents and as one who is living in the atmosphere of their spiritual significance.

The subject of the evening sermon was "A Vision of Jesus." Dr. Breeden is an extensive traveler and is as familiar with the Holy Land as many would be with their native land.

In developing this subject he dwelt at length upon the power to see—power perhaps given unto all, power cultivated. Blindness is the man who is led about by a boy or a dog is he who cannot see truth. The life of Jesus and His teachings solve every problem, he said, "and nothing but a realization of the greatness and the divinity of Christ can heal the spiritual blindness of man. Professor Lint has a chorus of 50 voices, supported by two pianos, two violins and a cornet and he led the chorus and the great audience with such skill that everyone felt the thrill of it. The inspiring song service, together with Mr. Travis's solos which he sang with great effectiveness, paved the way for the great service that followed.

Gould Millions to Enrich Nobility Through Marriage

Wedding of Vivien Gould and Lord Decies to Be International in Interest.

New York, N. Y., Feb. 6.—England's nobility will be enriched by the addition of several more millions of American dollars, when Miss Vivian Gould, aged 18, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, becomes the wife of Lord Decies, a middle-aged English nobleman, tomorrow afternoon. The wedding, which will be the most important social event of the season, will take place at 4 p. m. in St. Bartholomew's church, and that fashionable edifice will be crowded to the doors by the social elite of this country and many members of English nobility.

No expense has been spared in making the arrangements, and it will, undoubtedly, be the most lavish affair of this kind that New York society has ever witnessed, with the exception perhaps of the wedding of Miss Marjorie Gould, the bride's elder sister, which took place 10 months ago, and which set a new high water mark for expenditure in gifts and preparations. Mrs. Drexel's gifts alone reached the enormous total of $1,000,000, and it is

The bride's trousseau.

The young bride's trousseau, it is estimated, has cost $50,000, and is perhaps the most elaborate ever seen in New York. It consists of more than 40 gowns and suits, with a countless array of hats, shoes, slippers and stockings to match. Redfern, the famous tailor, made the cloth gowns and suits, and Drexel of Paris the wedding dress and evening dress.

The Wedding Gown. The wedding gown will be of heavy white duchesse satin, in semi-empire style, and heavily embroidered with silver roses. The court train will be eight yards long. There will be a low collar of real lace and a real lace veil. It is said that Miss Gould as Lady Decies will wear this gown when she is presented at the British court after the coronation ceremonies in June.

The bride's maid's gown will be made with the high-waisted empire effect of white chiffon over white satin. They will be trimmed with festoons of sea green satin ribbon. The hats will be of white chiffon, trimmed with green.

Luncheon to Be in Honor. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Gould will give a luncheon to her maid of honor, Miss Edith Gould, and her six bridesmaids, Miss Beatrice Claffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Claffin; Miss Hope Hamilton, cousin of the bride; Miss Louise Cromwell, of Washington; Miss Hannah Randolph, of Philadelphia; Miss Allison Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pierce, and Miss Emma Holmes.

The Bridegroom. Lord Alister Graham, son of the duke of Montrose, and cousin to Lord Decies, will act as best man, and serving as ushers will be Earl Percy, Lord Camoy, Robin Grey, Phoenix Ingram, Maurice Robinson, Robert H. Russell, Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., and Francis W. Chownshild.

A magnificent reception will be held at the Gould mansion on Fifth avenue, after the church service, to which all the guests have been invited. The great house has been decorated from top to bottom at an enormous expenditure.

Will Go to California. The bride and bridegroom will go to California on the honeymoon trip, and then start for London, where Lord Decies has taken a house for the season. As the groom is a peer of Great Britain, his young American bride will have a prominent part in the coronation ceremonies next summer.

Ends Romance of Two Years. The marriage of this young American heiress to a foreign nobleman old enough to be her father, is the culmination of a romance which began in 1909, when Lord Decies visited this country with several other English army officers to participate in the Madison Square garden horse show. He paid a great deal of attention to the charming little American, and lingered in the United States several months after the show had closed. Last November he revisited this country to take part in the horse show, and renewed his acquaintance with the Gould family. His marked attentions to the youthful Vivien caused a great deal of gossip in social circles, and led to the rumors of an existing engagement. As Miss Vivien had not yet made her debut, nothing further was said of the matter, although the baron, instead of returning to England after the close of the show, went to visit the Goulds at Lakewood, N. J.

Announced Prematurely. Despite these suspicions, the premature announcement of the engagement in a London society paper on December 14 caused no end of surprise. The great disparity in the ages of the couple, and the fact that the bridegroom was a foreign nobleman, caused no end of comments. In society circles, Miss Vivien was looked upon as a child, and arrangements for her coming out were just being made. George Gould's dislike for foreign noblemen of all kinds was also a well known fact. The experiences of his sister, Anna, with Count Boni Castellane and later

Below are Miss Edith Gould, a sister of the bride, who will act as maid of honor, and Lord Decies, the groom.

With her present husband, the prince de Sagan, have caused him no end of trouble, and when his eldest daughter, Miss Marjorie, was being followed all over Europe by several fortune-hunting dukes, he declared emphatically that his daughters would never marry a title. Marjorie followed her father's advice and gave her hand to young Tony Drexel, the son of the wealthy Philadelphia financier, thereby uniting two of the biggest fortunes in this country.

Opposed by Gould. It is known that at first Mr. Gould strenuously opposed the present match, but on being unable to find any flaws in the character of his future son-in-law, he was finally won over.

The young bride is not nearly so well known to the public as her older sister, but this is due entirely to her youth. She is tall and slender, with rich color and dark brilliant eyes. Like all of the seven Gould children, she has been reared democratically, spending most of her time previous to the present season, at Georgian Court, Lakewood, N. J., enjoying outdoor life. Her first formal appearance in society was at Marjorie's wedding last spring, but her formal debut was not scheduled to take place until the present season. Elaborate preparations were being made, and it was said that the party would outdo in splendor even that of Miss Marjorie, which took place at the Plaza hotel two years ago, and caused so much comment that Prof. Ferrero, the noted Roman historian, dropped his research among antiquities to draw some comparisons between the present day splendors and those of ancient Rome.

Then came the premature announcement of the engagement, and while it did not prevent the coming out party, the arrangements were greatly curtailed.

The Bridegroom. John Graham Hope Horsey Boreford, Lord Decies, to give him his full name, is very much of a man both in stature and character. He is over six feet tall and does not look his 44 years. It was only a short time ago that he succeeded to the title through the death of his brother. The baron is a distinguished soldier, being lieutenant colonel of the Seventh Hussars, and won his D. S. C. (Distinguished Order Service) in the campaign against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland. He has been aide de camp to the late Lord Curzon, when the latter was governor of Madras, and to the duke of Connaught. He served in the Matabele war in 1896 and in the Boer war four years later. His peerage was created at the beginning of the 19th century in favor of the youngest brother of the late marquis of Waterford, who was the Protestant archbishop of Tuam. Baron Decies is a noted cricket and polo player, and is keenly interested in hunting and racing.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and as a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."

—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

LAKEWOOD WOMAN TAKES OWN LIFE

Mrs. Joe Getzwaller Uses a Target Rifle Upon Herself.

Lakewood, N. M., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Joe Getzwaller, of this place, committed suicide last night by shooting herself through the body near the heart with a target rifle. She shot herself at 9 o'clock and died at midnight. Dr. Furay, of this place, and Dr. Epp, of Carlsbad, were called with the hope of saving her life, but to no avail.

The cause of the suicide is unknown. She leaves a husband and three little girls at Lakewood, and a father and mother at Canadian, Tex.

The burial will take place at the McDonald burying grounds Tuesday.

International Aviation Meeting

World-Famous Aviators to Fly In El Paso FIVE DAYS, FEB. 9 TO 13

Roland Garros, the French aviator, while seeking an altitude record at the recent Dallas aviation meet, became lost in the clouds, and his disappearance caused his teammates much uneasiness. After being in the air for some time Garros descended in a lot at an orphan's home several miles from Dallas. It being too dark to make the return flight to the city, Garros remained with his machine all night and at the break of day the following morning he made the start back to the aviation field. This picture shows his fellow aviators, Simon, Barrier and Hamilton, watching the flyer as he disappeared in the clouds the previous afternoon.
